US to Canada: "Stop harassing gun owners or we'll stop hunting there!"

Quote:

Oscar Lacombe is a 75-year-old Canadian veteran of the Korean War who was security chief for the legislature of Alberta for 20 years. He retired in 1993, and is now a distinguished and responsible private citizen.

On January 1, 2003, the date Canada's notorious federal gun registry took effect, Lacombe took an unloaded .22 rifle to a press conference in Edmonton, Alberta, and told the news media he would not register it. On principle, he could not submit to such an unnecessary and unjust law.

To avoid creating public alarm, the rifle was sealed in plastic, the firing bolt was removed, and Lacombe had given two days' notice of his intention to police.

Hitler was a vegetarian and had respect for animals as we all should (I think proud18 has expressed similar sentiments and WCFU has something in their site about this too).

As WN's, if fewer hunters come from the US to get drunk and kill our animals, isnt this good?

The point is that Canadians have lost the right to keep and bare arms and the link I provided was an example of economic leverage used to help get that right back for Canada. The fewer hunters coming to Canada is good because it forces officials to reconsider their tyrannical laws.

As for Hitler's vegetarianism, he didn't force it on others and it was due to traumatic association of meat with the death of a niece - <http://www.huppi.com/kangaroo/L-hitler.htm> . Since I'm not NS though, his thoughts on meat and hunting don't affect me anyway.
